INTRODUCTION

Bullying is a common issue in schools. It can occur not only at school, but also in a multitude of other environments. For others, bullying is a kind of retribution, a method of making oneself appear cool, and a way of demonstrating how others treated you. Domestic violence and abuse, which are linked to bullying, can also have an impact. Because of how badly you were treated, you believe that others should be treated the same way you were. You want someone to understand how terrified, lonely, and hurt you were.

Bullying may take many forms; it can be physical, verbal, or nonverbal; nonetheless, it is always immoral. You may be bullied by your physical appearance, gender, race, religion, status, abilities and disabilities. Bullying someone out of anger or hatred is not moral, regardless of the reason. "Parents are role models for children," as the saying goes. If you were raised in a corrupt and inefficient household, the sole result seems to influence your child to do what the parents do. There is no denying that domestic abuse, school bullying, and abuse are closely connected. They are all violent behaviors. Domestic violence is not moral behavior, it is illegal, and it is not considered acceptable.

Sin has disrupted everything on this earth. Everything will either get worse or better as time passes. People will either grow more harsh and mean, or they will become more nice and caring.

When bullying occurs, we cannot just turn a blind eye because as Christians/Roman Catholics, we recognize that bullies deprive another human being of dignity. Human dignity is the recognition that humans have a value inherent in humanity and are hence worthy of respect just because they are humans. Whether there are differences or similarities in age, ability, status, gender, ethnicity, etc., everyone must be treated with dignity as they are humans, just like us. The Catholic church's response to bullying may be found in Pope John XXIII's 1963 encyclical Pacem in Terris, which states that , "Any human society, if it is to be well-ordered and fruitful, must set down as a basis this truth, namely, that every human being is a person." As Christians, we must be a voice to the victims of this specific issue as we are not taught to defy the teachings based on the Bible. According to 1 John 2:19, "Anyone who claims to be in the light but hates a brother or sister is still in the darkness.". We must ought to do what is right as supporting actions such as bullying are against human dignity which condemns us as someone who's immoral.

RATIONALE

This advocacy was purposely created to promote peace and tranquility within our neighbors, friends, acquaintances, and community. It will assist individuals on how to conquer abuses throughout their life, whether physical or verbal violence. Furthermore, the students have provided varieties of solutions on how to handle the most common abuse, which is bullying. These resolutions function as a guide for those individuals who have low self-esteem- in short, the people who can't fight and defend themselves. In these ways, the victims would have a piece of knowledge in bullying management. They would be able to handle the situation against individuals who spout negativity towards them. In addition, this would raise public awareness to the community to never perform the act of bullying with each other. Each human beings have feelings and emotions within themselves. We're all the children of God Himself; therefore, we must show passion, love, and respect for one another. All of us belong to His family and always spread positivity throughout our lives.

SIX WAYS TO SOLVE BULLYING

Encourage them to speak out

Build awareness to the society through social media platforms

Spread information about bullying through our neighbor specially through our families

Listen without judging

Ask adult supervision if bullying cannot be controlled

Report to authorities if violence is used

Through these methods, we are able to fight off for the sake of the victim. Bullying should have an immediate response in correspondence to the victim's justice. If not, it may cause negative impacts on the mental, physical and/or emotional health of an individual, not only to the victim but also to the people around that victim.

So, take ACTION NOW!

PRAYER

Dear Lord and Father of all
Thank you for the blessings big and small
Thank you for your guidance
And for giving us a chance
A chance to repent and recognize our sins
As new life begins

We are all surrounded by evil
We are sometimes controlled by the devil
Give us strength and courage
Let not our bond be damaged
For you are our King
Above all living being

Let us learn how to love our enemy
Especially our bullies
Love them, bless them, and do good to them

Let us learn how to have confidence
Let us not feel inferior to our difference
Since it makes us special and unique
And not like what they say a "freak"

Let us learn how to stand up for ourselves
And not hide behind shelves
Be proud of who you are
Because you are your own star

Let us not stray away from the right path
Let us not get swayed by wrath
Let us not be conquered by a disease
And fill our hearts and minds with peace
Amen.
